PARKING AND DIRECTIONS

Parking at the Archives II facility will be available ONLY on Saturday, June 25. If you will be driving to the conference on Thursday or Friday, you will need to park in our designated lot at the University of Maryland and take the SHAFR shuttle to Archives II. Use of that lot requires a permit. To obtain one, send an e-mail to: conference@shaf.org. If you prefer not to wait for the shuttle, it is a one-mile walk from the SHAFR lot to Archives II.

SHAFR is providing shuttle service to Archives II from the Metro, the campus of the University of Maryland, and our designated parking lot on the UMD campus. Further details about the shuttle service will be sent to all registrants by e-mail. Directions will also be available online at: www.shaf.org/conference/2005/.

More information about getting to Archives II via public transportation can be found on the National Archives website at: www.archives.gov/facilities/md/archives\_2.html

ACCOMMODATIONS

ON-CAMPUS HOUSING

Housing is available at the University of Maryland and must be purchased as a minimum four-night package (June 21-June 24). Limited space is available for anyone who wishes to arrive a day early (June 20) or stay a day later (June 25). Registration and payment for on-campus housing must be arranged directly with the University. For more information, including an On-Campus Housing Registration Form, please check on-line at www.shafr.org/conference/2005/lodging.htm

you to make reservations online. You can even search to see who can seat a table of five at 8:00pm.

ANNOUNCING A NEW SERIES

New Studies in U.S. Foreign Relations Series

MARY ANN HEISS, SERIES EDITOR

New Studies in U.S. Foreign Relations focuses on works that expand the parameters of U.S. foreign relations. Chronologically broad and topically diverse, it is designed to further the internationalization—indeed, globalization—of the field by publishing a wide variety of innovative books, including interdisciplinary studies, that place the United States within a larger, transnational context. Possible areas of focus include, but are not limited to, identity formation and projection, borderlands studies, comparative history, and cultural transfer.

The first book in the series will be Constructing International Identity and Development: How the World Bank, Food and Agriculture Organization, and the World Health Organization Changed the World, 1945–1965, by Amy Staples (forthcoming 2006).

The George Washington University Cold War Group

Dedicated to building a community of faculty, scholars and graduate students to encourage a multilingual, multinational, multidisciplinary exploration of the cold war era and its implications for understanding current policy issues.

GWCW works closely with the National Security Archive and the Cold War International History Project and sponsors:

- An annual graduate student conference with the University of California, Santa Barbara and the London School of Economics
- An on-line resource designed to bring the study of the Cold War into high schools across the country
  - An Exemplary Education Project Award from the National Endowment for the Humanities
- A Summer Institute on Conducting Archival Research for graduate students from around the world
- A Ph.D. exchange program in Cold War Studies with the London School of Economics

GWCW resides in the Institute for European, Russian and Eurasian Studies (IERES) of the Elliott School of International Affairs at The George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

The National Security Archive

The George Washington University

"Specialists in U.S. national security policy, both scholars and journalists, will find the research collections of the Digital National Security Archive quite valuable. But anybody interested in revelations of government secrets and the prospects for future releases of official documents can use these sites with profit."

- Chester Pach, Ohio University,
The Journal of American History

"This is a great source for locating subject oriented collections of hard to find government information."

Our latest collection!

You saw Brezhnev, Zhou, Mao, Nixon, and Kissinger close up in The Kissinger Transcripts (New York, The New Press, 1999), edited by William Burr:

"A welcome trespass on terrain that the former Secretary of State still treats as his private preserve. [The Kissinger Transcripts] properly reclaims at least a portion of the record that should have long since become public property."

- Max Frankel, New York Times Book Review

"An absorbing book [full of] remarkable material on both Mao Zedong and Brezhnev."

- Jonathan Spence, New York Review of Books

Now, you can see 2,163 memcons (28,388 pages) documenting Kissinger as negotiator in The Kissinger Transcripts: A Verbatim Record of U.S. Diplomacy, 1969-1977.
